Title: Los Angeles Times Poll: Elderly Population of Orange County

Survey Organizations: Los Angeles Times

Field Dates: December 4 - 8, 1992

Sample: Adult residents of Orange County, California including an oversample of adults 60 years old and over

Sample Size: 1128

Interview Modes: Telephone Interview

Weight Location: Columns 1-7 (xxxxx.xx) -- Varname: WTVAR

Usage Notes: Do not use column locations on the questionnaire as they refer to an older version of the ascii data. Use the new column guide on page 4 of the PDF document for the ASCII (.dat) dataset. In the new dataset, punches marked 'X' and 'Y' in the codebook '-' and '&' respectively.

LOS ANGELES TIMES POLL
METHODOLOGY

This Los Angeles Times poll is the 304th in a series of opinion studies designed to measure public attitudes on a number of critical issues. This particular survey focuses on the elderly population in Orange County.

The sampling frame for this survey is all telephone residences in the county of Orange. One thousand one hundred and twenty-eight men and women 18 years of age or older were contacted by telephone December 4-8, 1992. Results are adjusted to conform with census figures on characteristics such as sex, age, race, education and household size. Telephone numbers were generated from a computer list that includes all telephone exchanges in the county. Random-digit dialing techniques were used to ensure that both listed and unlisted residences had an opportunity to be contacted. Interviews were conducted in both English and Spanish. Only those conversant in one of those languages were interviewed.

Those aged 60 years and older were oversampleed in order to provide a larger group for analysis; their answer are weighted to their proper proportions in the population when the responses of all adults are cited.

Readers are reminded that, since survey research normally questions only a small proportion of the population, one must allow a certain margin for error. The margin of sampling error for the total sample is plus or minus 3 points. The sampling error for those 60 years of age and over is plus or minus 5 points. For certain subgroups, the error margin is somewhat higher.

Surveys of this kind are sometimes subject to different kinds of inaccuracies for which precise estimates cannot be calculated and which may, in some cases, be even larger than the effects associated with sampling procedures. For example, findings may be influenced by events which take place while the survey is in the field and, of course, events occurring since the time the interviews were conducted could have changed the opinions reported here. Undetected flaws in the way the sampling and interviewing procedure were carried out could have a significant effect on the findings. Changing the wording of questions and the sequence in which they are asked can produce different results. Sometimes questions are inadvertently biased or misleading and people who responded to the survey may not necessarily replicate the views of those who refused to be interviewed or who could not be found at home during the time the survey was conducted. Moreover, while every precaution has been taken to make these findings completely accurate, other errors may have resulted from the various practical difficulties associated with taking any survey of public opinion.

Susan Pinkus directs the Los Angeles Times Poll under the general supervision of Dean Baquet, managing editor. Jill Darling Richardson is the associate director, Roger Richardson is the field director, Claudia Vaughn is the data management supervisor and Ray Enslow is the publications coordinator.
