Here are some questions about health care.

Minnesota has a Living Will law that allows adults to write out, in advance, what life support systems and other forms of care they would and would not want if they had a terminal illness. The provisions are to guide the doctor if the person is unable to speak for himself or herself at the time of the illness. I'd like to ask you a few questions about this law.

17. First, do you think this is a good law to have, or not?

Yes, good law 2
